Comprehensive Transportation Plan Presentation and Approval - Lee Snuggs, RRRPO, Roger Castillo-NCDOT, Temilope Animashaun-NCDOT: Temilope Animashaun explained that the Stanly County Comprehensive Transportation Plan (CTP) is a long-range, needs-based plan developed cooperatively by local stakeholders, Metropolitan Planning Organizations (MPOs), Rural Planning Organizations (RPOs), and the North Carolina Department of Transportation (NCDOT). The plan is based on community input and consensus regarding the future transportation system over the next 25 to 30 years.

The CTP is important because it identifies existing and future transportation needs and provides recommendations that may be submitted for future NCDOT funding opportunities. The plan can be amended as community needs change. It also serves as a guide for prioritizing and scoring future transportation projects and as a reference when applying for transportation-related grants.

The Misenheimer portion of the Comprehensive Transportation Plan was reviewed.
